The following sermon was written especially for The Washington Herald by Rev. John E. Briggs, pastor of the Fifth Baptist Church:

Why should not a nation as well as a home or a city protect itself? We lock our windows and doors every night to keep out those who would rob or kill us. Should not a nation lock its doors?

For thirty-five years Toistol believed nothing. But at the age of 51 he says faith came to him. He has said, "I believed in the doctrine of Jesus and my The police force of the say is the Men who follow Jesus must give up the savage principle of peace, but peace with honor rather than peace at any price. Militarism is a running sore, an unexcusable blunder. But is this the law of states? States also must come under the law of love, but may not love sometimes employ force? Must a community do away with all of their processes and compulsions of government? Must a state go unarmed and submit to every injustice which its own citizens or foreigners inflict?

Jesus never discussed that question and so we are left for guidance to an enlightened Christian conscience.

We need schools and churches plus public opinion and police force. As things are now we could not live without policemen. Insane men, brutalized men, defective men ruffass and described in the schools are now to be could not have proper means to that end. men, defective men, ruffians and desperadoes come here and these men would be kept from outrage and violence only by the iron hand of the law.

Take the police force from here and we would have pandemonium in twentyfour hours. What is a policeman but a soldier? His value lies in the fact that he is armed. Wherever he goes he carries a club and a gun. The club is made inconspicuous but it is a club—heavy nough to crack a man's skull. The gun, hough shortened and carried in his pocket is a gun just the same and a gun that can kill.

Let the word go out that there are no bet the word go out that there are no policemen in Washington and what would happen in twenty-four hours? The Treas-ury would be robbed, banks broken into and safety vaults rifled. The seven thousand policemen of New York are thousand policemen of them fork are an army. Without policemen teachers and preachers could not do their work. Under the present stage of development and progress they seem to be as necessary as teachers and preachers. But in more places than in the city policemen are needed. The State and large cities or in small ones. In vil-lages, cross roads and isolated farm houses. All of these must be protected by the State. "The war revenue bill will mark the passing of the 5 and 10-cent moving picture house," said Richard A. Stockton of Riverside, Cal., moving picture promoter and director, who is at the Shoreham and will appear before the Senate Committee on Finance tomorrow to oppose any additional burdens upon films. "The moving picture industry is willing to bear what is an equitable part of the cost of maintaining the war, but the theater taxes, proposed levy on tickets and the proposed assessment on films seems unjust. The cost of production, labor and everything that enters into the making of screen stories has advanced to the point where it will be practically necessary for the producers to almost double the price to the exhibitor if this tax is imposed as written in the House draft.
